PHURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1892.

RECENT REFLECTIONS.

-A marriage license was issued to Milliard L. Stark, Abilene, and Lizzie Stover, Bousecord.

-The Enterprise Creamery Co. is justly proud of having secured the second prize for fine butter among 27 entries at the State Dairy association. Manager Eyth has made a decided success of the "Shadybrook."

-Marshal Brown corralled a lot of boys who were gathered in a house south of the Lutheran church this morning. The boys were pondering some victousness or other but in the absence of tangible evidence were let

-O. L. Thisler, Dickinson county's large importer and breeder of horses, and late candidate for senator, reports the sale of Geoffria, a 5 year old Percheron stallion and a prize winner at the Kansas State fair, to James Buraway, Preston, Kas., for $2,500 .-[Topeka Capital,

A Serious Kick.

Wm. Moore, an employe on J. H. Mahan's farm, was kicked in the face by one of the horses last evening, badly mashing the face bones, though the injury will probably not prove fatal. Under the care of Drs. Hazlett and Ross he is getting along well.

Silver Wedding.

Yesterday being the twenty fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Folk they celebrated it by inviting about thirty of their friends in to spend the evening. After partaking of a bountiful supper, the host and bostess were presented with a stand loaded with costly silverware. Their children were all at home except the oldest son, Ora. A pleasant time was had by all.

A Pretty Opera.

The Andrews Opera company reselved hearty applause last evening from the audience that beard them in the bright, witty and pleasing comic opera "Dorothy." The company always good, is more; evenly balanced than ever before and there is not a weak spot in the performance. They deserve all the good things said of them. It is unfortunate that Abilene doesnot better appreciate a good theatrical performance. The house last night was not helf what it should have Masonic Officials.

The new officers of Cyrus chapter. N. 25, R. A. M., elected last evening w. as follows: Biohard Waring, High Priest; R. B. Jacobs, King; D. W. Naill, scribe; W. B. Giles, treasurer; J. I. Worley, secretary.

There will be a general meeting of the Masonic bodies next Tuesday evening, St. John's day, at which offiers of Benevolent lodge No. 98 A. F. & A. M.; Cyrus chapter No. 25 R. A. M. and Abilene chapter, No. 111, O. E. S., will be installed. All members of these lodges with their wives, husbands and sweethearts are invited to the installation.

Cowles-Pettys.

At the home of the bride's father, Col. Pettys, of Kaneas City, at 7:15 ast evening occurred the wedding of Mr. Arthur J. Cowles, of Abilene, and Miss Saidee B. Pettys. The bride and groom left immediately after the ceremony for a bridal tour of a week to St. Louis, after which they will return to Abilene and make their home in the newly fitted up Kenyon property on West Fourth street. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cowles of Abilens were present at the wedding and will return tomortow. The newly married couple will have the congratulations of many friends in this city. The bride visited here last summer and made many acquaintances.

TOM A BORMAN.

Buffalo Lodgewas wrapped in silence The last shades of twilight had faded into darkness and for three days a errible blizzard had raged.

Mark Hopkins sat in his rudely furnished office. He was twenty-three. eastern born and bred. A volume of Blackstone lay upon the table before him but his eyes were closed. He sat reflecting. He thought of his latter school days and how nicely he had given graduating oration before dozens of sworn admirers; he remembered his many friends at the station bidding him goodbye, and how one year ago this very evening-Christmas eve -he had stepped off the train in this western ploneer wilderpess, putting out

But, the wheel of fortune had turned his way, and although he had tried no criminal cases he had realized a nice sum from his claim contest suits.

A vigorous knock and a voice was neard: "Hey, mister! are you in?" Half scared, Mark opened the door od peering into the darkness it quired

W-what tonight sir?" "tlere's a note for yer. It's from Houston's ranche," replied an elderly nan as he entered.

Mark read:

"It will happen tomorrow morning "It will happen tomorrow merning You must come tonight, You will return with Old Trusty, our superin tendant, who carries this message. He has our swiftest horse and will get you here in good time."

"" BINNIE HOUSTON." "By Jove, old man," exclaimed the reader, "I'll go bock with you. It means more than dollars and cents to We must get there by morning.

"Hom," answered Old Trusty, "if I can't git you there no man on the range can. I've traveled the trail fer ten years and I tell yer my horse can't be beat, she's true as steel."

It was a terrible pight to make a ride of twenty miles against the out ing wind and blinding snow, with the mercury hovering around the zero point. But no weather could now stand between Mark and the writer of the homely message.

In a few minutes Mark was on the well trained horse behind the accomplished western rider, making remark able speed down the badly drifted trail, at midnight with no guidence save the ever reliable instince of man and horse.

"Well, say Trusty, they have forced this marrying business a little haven's they? Crimnie don't want to matr that ranchman, does she? If she don't and will have me, I'll marry her in spite of the old folks and the Mark paused as he excused himself for She's made of good stoff and if you let me fix things for you, you'll have the nicest little wife in sixty counties before noon today."

"Very well," replied Mark wondering what plan the old man would take. The rising Caristmas sun found the riders within the boundary line of Col. Houston's large ranche. The wind had gone down and the soow had ceased drifting. Mark and Old Trusty, although quite stiff and cold, considered themselves fortunate that they had fared so well and were nearing the end of their ride.

"Now," said Trusty as he rode up to his own gable, nearly a mile from Colonel Houston's, "now begins the real work and I'm just the man to do it. Rest easy until you hear from

In Crinnia's home the final preparations had been made for her wedding at half past ten o'clock of that day and now it was nearly none. Colonel and Mrs. Houston leved their daughter and were anxious that her future should be a happy one. They had cho en a husband for her instead of allowing her to wed the man of her choice, the young attorney of Buffalo Lodge, beause they thought they knew best.

Crimie had spent the morning to her com. She was not gay and bright as one should be on Christmas, although it was to be her wedding day. Her thoughts were wandering, turning first to Mark then to the ranchmen whom "Merry, merry Christmas, Colonel," came from outside. "Its Old Trusty, good! I hope ha's ome," shouted Crimie as she clar ped her hands and started for the d sor, but hiding her joy as she neared Mrs. Houston

"Christmas gift, Trusty, Christmas Pitcher's Castoria.

Come vide down to my cabin with me. There's eres of various nations on the whole lots of time before the weddin', the

A moment later Old Trusty lifted the lithe figure upon the horse behind him and they were soon at his cabin door. Throwing the reins over a snag he led her in.

"Ha, ba, my little Christmas gift you don't want the ranchman. Deyou?" exclaimed Mark as he caught

"No, Mark, I don't." "Then will you risk life with me?"

"Yes, but let us fly." "On no," broke in Trusty, "It's en a long time since I've preached any but I ain't forgot them few words yet. I can marry you as well as not," and he took from his pocket a license obtained the day before. A few wordsaid and Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins rode to Colonel Houston's.

Crinnie led the way and with an nnocent look introduced Mark.

"My husband, a Coristmus present from Old Frusty," she said, "Isn't be nice? You know I am eighteen today and may do my own choosing and his shingle "attorney at law" on the I haven't selected the ranchman either Old Trusty married us. See how it's done papa?"

The old colonel, frowned then smiled and taking her hands in his he ex claimed, "Io love and lovin' what is to be, will be." Buffalo Lodge has now grown to a there seems to be no doubt that the map will be produced.

Each sheet of the map up to 60 degrees north latitude will embrace five degrees in each direction. The more northern sheets will embrace ten degrees of longitude. The representation of the whole earth, including the sea, of the whole earth, including the sea, will require 936 of these sheets, while the land alone may be shown on 759 sheets. It is proposed to give great attention to the physical and political features. Dr. Ravenatein, the English mapmaker, says that the rivers will be in blue and the hills in brown. Contour lines will be described by the same of the sam lines will be drawn at elevations of 100. 300, 500 and 1,200 meters, and the areas inclosed by them are to be tinted. It is expected that sheets which deal with countries aiready topographically sur-veyed will be engraved on copper. The remaining sheets will probably be lithographed.

The Greenwich meridian will be as cepted for the entire map, says the New York Sun, and all altitudes are to be marked in meters. The official spelling of all countries using the Latin alpha-bet is to be retained. Other alphabets are to be transliterated in accordance with a system to be agreed upon, while names in unwritten languages will be spelled phonetically. It is estimated that the cost of an edition of 1,000 copies of this map, showing only the land surface, will be $957,190, and as the sale of the first edition at 2 shillings a sheet would produce only $478,595 the deficit would be made up by the gov-ernments concerned or by liberal private patrons.
